

Community Pedestrian and Bicycle Safety Training

About the Project

The Community Pedestrian and Bicycle Safety Training (CPBST) project is a joint project of California Walks (Cal Walks) and UC Berkeley Safe Transportation Research and Education Center (SafeTREC).

The CPBST project works with residents, schools, agencies, organizations, local officials, and other community partners to understand a community's walking and biking safety concerns and advance their safety goals. This free workshop helps strengthen collaboration between all safety partners. As of 2021, SafeTREC and Cal Walks have conducted 112 workshops statewide.

What to Expect

Each community will convene a local Planning Committee to adapt the workshop curriculum to address the community's safety goals and to help implement action plans developed during the workshop. Cal Walks, SafeTREC, and the local Planning Committee will work together to adapt the program curriculum to meet the community's needs.

Project Activities

A facilitated discussion on local crash data and the community's safety experiences;

A walking and biking assessment to identify safety concerns and opportunities for improvements;

An educational overview of the Safe System framework and strategies; and

An interactive activity to develop a community-driven safety action plan
